"What lies behind us and what lies before us are small matters compared to what lies within us."

Veronica Tronoski

Born in Philadelphia, PA, raised in neighboring counties, Veronica comes from a rich heritage of Italian-born family, rooted in family values and traditions.

After making her way through the corporate world, at age 36 Veronica's life was dramatically changed by a debilitating head trauma. This life-altering event has become "her greatest gift," introducing her to new ways of thinking, new ways of being, and a 4-year program of energy healing and transformative training at The Barbara Brennan School of Healing which ignited her deep desire to live a passionate and joyful life. Long repressed creative urges surfaced which brought Veronica to her love for painting and exploring creative self-expression.

Veronica's work is an eclectic mix that speaks to many in a variety of ways. As a member of the Artists Equity-Tri State Association, her work has been juried into shows at Widener University by Moe Brooker and The Barnstone Gallery of Phoenixville, PA. She has sold work for private residences and displays her art at area businesses such as Wachovia Securities of Collegeville, PA and The Steel City Coffee House of Phoenixville, as well as The Phoenix Village Art Center. Veronica is currently conducting professional workshops for the Creative & Expressive Arts.

Veronica currently resides in Montgomery County, PA with her husband, Bob and her two children, Michael & Jessica, and their treasured Himalayan kitties, Romeo and Juliet. You can usually find Veronica at her studio in Phoenixville, PA expressing her creative Self. It is her dream to inspire, motivate, and to teach - "...the Art of Soul Expression."
